

Lay Education Spring 2010
The Presbyterian College, Montreal

Jesus . . . was a doer of startling deeds
(Josephus, Ant. 18.3.3 §63)

“He healed the blind and the cripple . . . he said, ‘Pick up your bed and walk’”
(Bob Dylan, “In the Garden”)

“He never cured any diseases . . . no loaves and fishes, no water into wine, no raising of Lazarus. And certainly no resurrection.”
(Time Magazine, January 10, 1994)

Graham Twelftree reminds us that the study of the miracles is important for several reasons. They intersect contemporary popular interest in Jesus, they occupy a large portion of the gospels, and they are an important component for understanding the character of Jesus.

Come and join us for a day of studying:
